

Authors

Tunde ADELEKE is Professor of History at the Department of History at Iowa State University, Ames, and Director of the African and African American Studies Program (AAAS). His fields of interest are African History and African American Studies. Among his many books are Africa in Black Liberation Activism: Malcolm X, Stokely Carmichael and Walter Rodney (2017), The Case Against Afrocentrism (2009), Without Regard to Race: The Other Martin Robinson Delaney (2003 and 2012) and UnAfrican Americans: Nineteenth Century Black Nationalists and the Civilizing Mission (1998).

Email: tadeleke@iastate.edu

Silvio Tamaso D'ONOFRIO holds a Doctor of Science degree in Social History (2017) from the University of São Paulo, Brazil. Teaching in higher education since 2015, he works in the areas of Intellectual History and Archives, with extensions to Digital Humanities, and is leader of the research group "REGIONEM - Regional Multidisciplinary Studies".

Email: opeltrezero@gmail.com

Dominik FRÜHWIRTH is a Doctoral Candidate at the African Studies Department of the University of Vienna, Austria, and Associated Researcher at the "Mobile Cultures and Societies" research platform at the same university. He holds a Master Degree in International Development Studies and a Bachelor Degree in African Studies with an extension in History of Religions, Theology and Bible Studies. His research focuses on African History and Development, and in particular on African diaspora involvement and Rastafari Studies. He has worked in the field of International Development in Nairobi and Vienna, has done extensive research on Rastafari in East and West Africa, the UK and Jamaica. Email: mag.dominik.fruehwirth@gmail.com

Immanuel R. HARISCH is a Doctoral Candidate in History at the research platform “Mobile Cultures and Societies” at the University of Vienna, Austria, working on the topic of African trade unionists in the global South as well as in East and West during the Cold War. He holds Master degrees in African Studies as well as International Development Studies. Among his fields of interests are Socialisms in Africa, knowledge production processes in the global South and the former Eastern bloc, and the history of trade unionism in Africa. His studies and research interests led him frequently to the Campus of Dar es Salaam University.

Email: immanuel.harisch@gmail.com

Arno SONDEREGGER is Senior Lecturer for African History and Societies at the Department of African Studies at the University of Vienna. His fields of interests are African history in its broadest sense, Global History and, in particular, Intellectual History and the History of Ideas. Among his books are Kurze Geschichte des Alten Afrika: Von den Anfängen bis 1600 (2017) and Die Dämonisierung Afrikas: Zum Despotiebegriff und zur Geschichte der Afrikanischen Despotie (2008). Two of several edited volumes on African history and racism are available in English: African Thoughts on Colonial and Neo-Colonial Worlds: Facets of an Intellectual History of Africa (2015) and Perspectives on Ethnicity and “Race” (2009).

Email: arno.sonderegger@univie.ac.at

Katharina WURZER holds a Bachelor degree in African Studies. She is an advanced Master student in African Studies and Political Science at the University of Vienna, participating in various teaching and research activities at the departments of African Studies, Political Science-Staatswissenschaft and International Development Studies. Since 2017, she serves as Research Assistant at the Vienna Center for Electoral Research (VieCER). Her regional expertise is on West Africa in general and francophone Africa in particular.

Email: katharinawurzer@hotmail.com