

Authors/ Autor*innen

Temitope Yetunde Bello is a lecturer in the Departments of Political Science and International Relations, KolaDaisi University, Ibadan, Nigeria. She has won scholarships and grants to partake in local and international scholarly meetings and engaged in individual and collaborative researches under the auspices of CODESRIA, SSRC, MIASA, SMUS, TETFUND, SOAS University of London, University of Edinburgh, Mo Ibrahim Foundation and Baywood Foundation. Some of these engagements have produced academic publications in areas of media and politics; social media and mob justice; mob justice and the justice system; insurgency and women insecurity as well as urbanisation and the informal sector. Email: temitopebello5050@yahoo.com

Birgit Englert is an Associate Professor in African History and Society at the Department of African Studies, University of Vienna, Austria. She has published widely on land rights issues, popular culture, mobilities, including travel writing, as well as qualitative research methodologies. Her current projects are situated at the crossroads of African Studies and Mobility Studies.

Email: birgit.englert@univie.ac.at Syntia Hasenöhr obtained her doctoral degree in political science from the University of Vienna, affiliated with the research platform Mobile Cultures and Societies and funded by the Austrian Academy of Sciences. Her dissertation analyses political mobilisations through online news in a postcolonial Malian-diasporic context. Lately, she has been working as student advisor at the Afro-Asian Institute Salzburg and as external lecturer at the universities of Vienna and Salzburg. Her research interests include decolonial feminisms, climate politics, and (critical) mobility studies. Email: syntia.hasenoehrl@univie.ac.at

Joseph Udimal Kachim studied for his PhD with the International Studies Group at the University of the Free State in South Africa. Currently, he is lecturer at the Department of History of the University of Cape Coast, Ghana. His research interest is in mobility and belonging of African populations along colonial borders in West Africa. He has won a number of international fellowships, including the prestigious ACLS African Humanities Postdoctoral Fellowship and University of Michigan African Presidential Scholars (UMAPS).

Email: joseph.kachim@ucc.edu.gh

Roland N. Ndille is Associate Professor and Head of Department of History at the University of Buea-Cameroon. He is also a Senior Research Fellow at the Department of History, University of the Free State in South Africa. He is the convenor of the Annual Cameroon History Postgraduate Conference (CHPC) and Principal Investigator of the Global South Epistemologies Research Lab www.gloserc.org. His research interests are in History of Religion, History and Policy of Education, History of Science and Technology and Provenance Research all with a Decolonial perspective. Email: roland.ndille@ubuea.cm uMbuso weNkosi is a versatile researcher – he has focused on labour studies, industrial policy, economic development, agrarian studies, archives, and social theory. He served as the editor of the Global Labour Column (GLC) and the South African Labour Bulletin (SALB). He is a postdoctoral fellow at the Johannesburg Institute for Advanced Study (JIAS), University of Johannesburg. His Book “These Potatoes Look Like Humans: The Contested Future of Land, Home and Death in South Africa” will be published in September 2023 by Wits University Press. Email: umbusowenkosi@gmail.com

Mutiat Titilope Oladejo Ph.D is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of History, University of Ibadan, Nigeria. She is a fellow of the American Council of Learned Societies, African Humanities Program. She recently published the book titled “A History of Textiles and Fashion in Twentieth Century Yoruba World”, Cambridge Scholars Publishing, UK, 2022. Email: oladejomutiat@yahoo.com

Sharon Adetutu Omotoso is a Senior Research Fellow (Gender/Media Studies) at the Institute of African Studies, University of Ibadan, where she heads the Institute's Women's Research and Documentation Centre (WORDOC). She is Director at the Centre for Applied Ethics and Political Communication in Africa (CAEPOCOM AFRICA), an alumna of the COADY Institute, St. Francis Xavier University Canada, a Chartered Mediator & Conciliator, and Fellow of the African Multiple Cluster, Universität Bayreuth, Germany. Her areas of research interest include: Applied Ethics, Media & Gender Studies, Political Communications, Philosophy of Education, Socio-Political Philosophy, and African Philosophy in which she has published significantly. Email: sharonotoso@gmail.com

Calvin Patrick Bandah Panga, historien, Enseignant-chercheur à l'Ecole Normale Supérieure de Bertoua (Cameroun). Ancien boursier de la Gerda Henkel Stiftung, auteur d'une thèse sur la colonisation allemande au Cameroun, mes centres de recherches sont le pillage des objets d'art et la problématique de la restitution. Auteur de plusieurs articles sur le sujet, je suis également membre de la Société Camerounaise d'Histoire et de la Société Suisse de Recherche en Provenance. Email: calvinopatrick@yahoo.fr

Daniella Rafaely is a lecturer in the Department of Psychology at the University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg. She uses an ethnomethodological, conversation-analytic approach to the study of social interaction, social categories and common-sense knowledge. Her research utilizes a range of everyday settings in order to examine the methods by which morality is reproduced as a social institution in everyday interactions. Email: daniella.rafaely@wits.ac.za

Dominik Spörker absolvierte das Studium der Afrikawissenschaften und der Geschichtswissenschaften an der Universität Wien. Während seiner Studienzeit war er als Studienassistent am Institut für Afrikawissenschaften tätig. Derzeit arbeitet er an Provenienzforschungsprojekten am Weltmuseum Wien und am Naturhistorischen Museum Wien, in denen koloniale Erwerbkontexte untersucht werden. Im Rahmen seiner Dissertation beforcht er die ostafrikanischen Sammlungen der k.k. Kriegsmarine für das k.k. Naturhistorische Hofmuseum. Seine Forschungsschwerpunkte umfassen die Geschichte Ostafrikas im 19. Jahrhundert, Wissenschaftsgeschichte sowie (post)koloniale Provenienzforschung. Email: domi.spoerker@gmail.com