

Authors/Autor*innen

Richard Abayomi Aborisade (he/him), Ph.D., is a Professor of Criminology and Victimology at the Department of Sociology, Faculty of Social Sciences, Olabisi Onabanjo University, Ogun State, Nigeria. His research themes include violence against women and girls, family-based violence, victimization, the Nigerian criminal justice system and treatment of the offender, policing 21st century Nigeria, cybercrime victimization, security, and sustainable development in Nigeria. He has published in both local and international journals in these areas. Contact: ra.aborisade@gmail.com

Agustina Alvarez (she/her): I hold both a bachelor's degree from the University of Vienna (2014) and a master's degree in African studies from the University of Leiden (2016). I have specialized in East African Contemporary Politics, International Relations and Foreign Policy at the University of Dar es Salaam and I am fluent in Kiswahili. I focus my research on sacred forests in the Kilimanjaro area, since 2016. Currently, I am a Programme Coordinator in Ethiopia and Mozambique for an international NGO based in Vienna, but I continue my research and fieldwork independently and present my findings at international conferences in Europe. Contact: agustina_alvarez@gmx.at

Adewole Akinyemi Atere (he/him), Ph.D., is a Professor of Criminology/ Penology. His current institutional affiliation is Osun State University, College of Law, Department of Criminology and Security Studies. He holds a bachelor's degree in Sociology. Obtained a master's degree (M.Sc.) in Sociology (Criminology) 1991 and a Doctorate degree in Criminology/Penology (2000) all from the University of Ibadan. His teaching and research activities cuts across Sociology, Criminology, Penology and Social Work. He has a sizable number of publications particularly in the area of Criminology in which he Professes. He has been external examiner for both undergraduate and postgraduate studies. Contact: adewole.ater@uniosun.edu.ng

Maximilian Chuhila (he/him) is a Senior Lecturer at the Department of History, University of Dar es Salaam. He holds a PhD from the University of Warwick, Master of Arts in History and Bachelor of Arts from the University of Dar es Salaam – Tanzania. He teaches theory of history, thematic and regional courses. He researches and publishes on rural and urban transformations, environmental histories and decolonisation debates. He also supervises graduate students in these areas. Currently, he is working on a book manuscript titled: 'Expanding Frontiers: History, Culture and Belonging on the Slopes of Mount Kilimanjaro, ca.1920 to 1980'. Contact: chuhila@udsm.ac.tz

Christiana Urowoli Ebo (she/her), Ph.D., is a lecturer in the Department of Criminology and Security Studies, Faculty of Social Sciences, National Open University of Nigeria. She has a Ph.D. Degree in Sociology (Criminology) and MSc. Degree in Sociology (Criminology and Penology). Her areas of research focus are female criminality, sexual crimes, child abuse/domestic violence including intimate partner violence, murder committed by females, desistance and prison studies on female offenders including inmates' education through Open and Distance Learning (ODL). She has publications in both local and international journals in all the areas mentioned above. Contact: cebobo@noun.edu.ng

Immanuel R. Harisch (he/him), Ph.D., is currently a Post-Doc researcher in a project on Yugoslav-Zambian relations during the Cold War, funded by the Austrian Science Fund. His dissertation on African trade unions in the world of organized labor has been awarded the Walter-Markov price for global history and the Young Scholar's Award of the African Association Germany (VAD). He is co-editor of the anthology Navigating Socialist Encounters. Moorings and (Dis)Entanglements between Africa and East Germany during the Cold War (2021) and has published several journal articles on African/global labor history, African socialisms, East-South connections, and knowledge production. Since 2021 he is managing editor of Stichproben. Vienna Journal of African Studies. Contact: immanuel.harisch@univie.ac.at

Lisa Hoppel (sie/ihr) ist am Institut für Wirtschafts- und Sozialgeschichte an der Universität Wien tätig. In ihrem Dissertationsprojekt, das mit dem DOC-Stipendium der Österreichischen Akademie der Wissenschaften (2020-2023) ausgezeichnet wurde, befasst sie sich mit afro-asiatischen Netzwerken und deren Bedeutung für panafrikanische Gesellschafts- und Entwicklungsmodelle in den 1950er und 1960er Jahren. 2019 veröffentlichte Hoppel ihr Buch zu Panafrikanismus, antikolonialem Nationalismus und Internationalismus. Zuletzt erschien das von ihr (mit-)herausgegebene Themenheft der Österreichischen Zeitschrift für Geschichtswissenschaften zum Konzept der Wissenszirkulation (OeZG 3/23). Kontakt: lisa.hoppel@univie.ac.at

Resty Naiga (she/her) studied for her PhD at the University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences in Vienna, Austria. She is currently a Senior Lecturer, Head and Chair of the Department of Development Studies at Makerere University Kampala, Uganda. Her research interests include water governance, community participation, refugee studies, peace and conflict studies, collective action, and gender. She has won several international fellowships such as the African Peacebuilding Research Network (APN), the International Peace Research Association Foundation (IPRAF), and Andrew W Mellon. She has published on community-based water management, collective action, water conflicts, and gender. Contact: resty.naiga@hotmail.com

João Fusco Ribeiro (he/him) is a PhD student with a FCT Contemporary History Fellowship at the Political Science Research Centre at the University of Évora, Portugal. He earned a BA in History and Archaeology (2013) and a MA in European and African Historical Studies (2016) from the University of Évora. He worked as an archival researcher on the FCT-funded project "Historical Sources of Transnational Regionalism in Southern Africa: The Liberation Movements and White Africa as Driving Forces (1960-1980)" at CICP. His research focuses on Angolan liberation movements and the decolonization process in Lusophone Africa. Contact: joaoribeiro1991@gmail.com

Klaus Tezokeng (he/him) holds a PhD in German Studies from the University of Pretoria, where he also served as an assistant lecturer in the Department of Ancient and Modern Languages and Cultures. His research interests include literary environmental criticism, cultural animal studies, and posthumanism. Contact: tezokengklaus1@gmail.com

Saleh Yasin (he/him) is a graduate student at the department of History University of Dar es Salaam. He is interested in furthering research in areas of urban histories, environmental history and local agency in urban making. Before joining graduate studies Yasin worked as a secondary school teacher where he also wrote secondary school history textbooks that are currently used in schools as supplementary readings. Contact: salehy658@gmail.com